

MARK ROCKWOOD WINS BEST IN SHOW & WILL HAVE HIS OWN GALLERY EXHIBITION IN MAY

Unchartered Creativity LLC Showcases 10 Henry County Art Students in a Gallery Showing and Student Art Exhibition

On December 8th of this year, 10 students representing Henry County Schools competed in the first annual "Henry County GHP Gallery Showing and Art Competition" sponsored by Unchartered Creativity LLC.

Each of the students (Maria Astacio representing Eagle's Landing High School; Kyle Crowder, Mark Rockwood, Chandler Peterman and Laurie's Latimer representing Luella High School; Hannah Hames, Grayson Weed, and Harrison Willingham representing Locust Grove High School; Victor Gardy representing Woodland High School and Janise Jackson representing Dutchtown High School) competed for a chance to win his or her own gallery opening event, two week personal showing of his/her works and a spot to showcase his or her artworks online with Unchartered Creativity at uncharteredcreativity.com.

This year's prize awards went to Victor Gardy who received 3rd place for his untitled still-life, Chandler Peterman who received 2nd place for her photograph of "A Broken Windshield," and first place went to Mark Rockwood for his "Intricate Designs." Best in show also went to Mark Rockwood for his colorful "Girls Back in the Water."

Mark Rockwood, A Sophomore and straight "A" student at Luella High School is an up and coming talent to keep an eye on. His artistic growth and determination will one day set the artistic world on fire.

The show, honoring these young individuals runs through January and is a must see by the community. So come out and enjoy the artworks while they last.
